The United States maintains high standards for English proficiency, ensuring that international students can effectively engage with coursework and excel in their academic endeavors. Prior to applying to US universities, it's essential to demonstrate proficiency in the English language through recognized tests.

The International English Language Testing System (IELTS) is widely recognized and accepted by US universities as a standard measure of English proficiency. Additionally, universities in the USA may also accept other proficiency tests, such as the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL), Pearson Test of English (PTE), and the Duolingo English Test.

Each test assesses various language skills and offers alternative methods for showcasing English proficiency. Below are the average minimum scores typically required for each accepted English proficiency test by US universities:

English Proficiency Test	Average Minimum Score
IELTS	6.0
TOEFL	70-100
PTE	52+
Duolingo Test	100
